Course Addition:

GLS 3130 – Global Disparities in Human Health (3)

When Offered: Spring, Odd-numbered years

This course explores the many obstacles to social, economic, and environmental resources based on socioeconomic status, race and ethnicity, gender or gender identity, sexual orientation, age, and geographic location that adversely affects health and access to health care. Health is needed to function in every aspect of life, yet when different segments of the population are excluded or discriminated against in a manner that reduces their access to resources such as healthy food, clean water, education, and quality health care, life expectancies decrease, mortality rates increase, and a cycle of poverty inextricably linked to poor health persists. This is a discussion-based course that takes a multidisciplinary approach to historical and emerging global health issues, and is designed to stimulate critical thinking and communication skills, and emphasizes the importance of being a responsible member of the community, as well as a world citizen.

GLS 3230 – Global Health and Climate Change (3)

When Offered: Spring, Even-numbered years

An increase in extreme weather events, rising sea levels, changes in precipitation patterns, and emerging and re-emerging infectious diseases are common climate change impacts that are reducing health outcomes globally. Although populations in every region will experience increased health risks, less developed countries that have fewer resources, poorer health, and reduced access to health care will be the most affected, despite their smaller contributions to global climate change. This discussion-based course introduces students to common concepts and themes in public and global health, the primary drivers and impacts of climate change, and provides a forum for understanding the relationship between a changing climate and changing patterns in global health as well as mitigation and adaptation strategies.

The Nutrition and Wellness concentration prepares students to fill positions at the local, state, national and global levels, including jobs within government health agencies such as WIC, Head Start, 4-H, cooperative extension, school systems, non-profit agencies, food systems and food security organizations, environmental education, and community health programs across the state, region, country and globally. Additionally, the Nutrition and Wellness concentration will prepare students who seek careers in corporate wellness, nutraceuticals, wellness facilities or further education in the health sciences. Nutrition and Wellness students complete a 200 hour internship in a nutrition and wellness facility or organization.

NUT and Wellness GPA requirements: 2.5 cumulative GPA required for declaration, 2.5 cumulative and 2.0 major GPA required for retention, and 2.5 cumulative GPA required for graduation.

NUT and Wellness grade requirements: All NUT and Wellness majors must earn a minimum grade of "C" (2.0) in each required NUT course in the major.

Department of Recreation Management and Physical Education

Melissa Weddell, Chair

Full Faculty Listing

The Department of Recreation Management and Physical Education is an innovative, diverse and forward-thinking academic unit consisting of three program areas:

- Physical Education Activity (PEA) program offers a variety of General Education Wellness Literacy courses that prepare students to participate in health-enhancing physical activity throughout their lives;
- Health, Physical Education and Coaching (HPEC) prepares students for careers as K-12 health and physical educators, school-based activity directors and coaches;
- Recreation Management (RM) prepares graduates for careers as recreation management professionals.

Student organizations that are supported by the department include the Recreation Management Association and the Health, Physical Education and Coaching Club.

The Department of Recreation Management and Physical Education programs and student organizations are supported by high quality faculty who engage in effective teaching, germane scholarly activity, and relevant service.

Health and Physical Education, K-12 (with teacher licensure) (HPE)

Graduates earning a Bachelor of Science degree in Health and Physical Education (HPE), K-12 Teaching will be prepared to assume the challenging role of 21st century educators who are capable of and committed to improving school-aged children's health and wellness. Twenty-first century health and physical educators must possess the knowledge, skills and dispositions necessary to advance psychomotor, cognitive and affective learning in both the classroom and movement-centered instructional environments. Accordingly, the HPE degree is nationally accredited (NASPE/NCATE BTS) at the unit level and state program approval (NCDPI) to ensure that teacher candidates achieve desired outcomes. Graduates with Appalachian State University's HPE degree will:

- Be prepared for licensure as K-12 Health and Physical Education Teachers;
- Be competent instructors, committed-ethical leaders, and reflective practitioners committed to lifelong professional development;
- Employ empirically validated planning, instruction and assessment behaviors;
- Possess the ability to impact school-aged children's health and wellness in positive, meaningful, and sustainable ways;
- Work to resolve, in a proactive, collaborative and responsible fashion, community, state, and national health issues.

Admission and Retention Requirements

HPE GPA requirement: 2.0 cumulative GPA required for declaration, 2.7 cumulative GPA required for admission into the teacher education program, 2.7 cumulative GPA required for retention in the teacher education program, and 2.7 cumulative and 2.0 major GPA required for graduation.

HPE grade requirements: All HPE majors must earn a minimum grade of “C” (2.0) in each required course in the major.

For additional admission and retention requirements for teacher education, please refer to the Reich College of Education section of the bulletin and the Initial Licensure Teacher Education Student Handbook \(https://rcoe.appstate.edu/students/forms-resources-testing\).

Health and Physical Education Curriculum

The health and physical education curriculum consists of 45 semester hours and operates in a coordinated sequence and utilizes a cohort grouping system. This structure allows for a vertical model of integration where salient knowledge and skills are initially introduced and systematically developed across the curriculum through a variety of highly connected classroom, laboratory, and field-based teaching- learning experiences. Each successive teaching-learning experience across the curriculum requires the integration of increasingly sophisticated content knowledge and pedagogy. Additionally, HPE majors select an 18-semester hour Second Academic Concentration (SAC) and complete 24 semester hours of Professional Education coursework, which includes a 12-semester hour Student Teaching internship as part of the degree requirements.

The HPE program promotes the development of health and physical education professionals who are prepared to advance the fitness, psychomotor, cognitive and affective learning of school-aged children.
